

Ottobrunn Riemerling, March 5th 2020

Information regarding Coronavirus (2019-nCoV) | Impact on our delivery capability

Ladies and Gentlemen,

We are currently receiving inquiries regarding our delivery capability and the possible disturbance caused by the spread of the corona virus (2019-nCoV). We would like to comment on this as follows:

As a leading manufacturer of precision tools (single piece production) for the electronics industry, we have been repeatedly faced with interruptions in our international supply chains in recent years, but we have always been able to find alternatives and deliver them reliably on time.

An important action in terms of reliable delivery capability is our willingness to continuously adapt local warehousing to the growth of our company and the risks of the market.

After repeated careful examination of our supply chains for precision screens, stencils and squeegees, we do not expect any interruption and therefore no effects on the further delivery to your location.

We are in constant contact with our suppliers and will continue to carefully monitor the situation in China, Europe and other countries where there is a risk of a further outbreak and take all necessary precautions to ensure our ability to deliver in the future.

We are always available to answer any further questions.

Michael Brianda

Managing Director